SUMMER BARGAINS.

This is the harvest season for bargains. As the winter months draw near, the stores are clearing out their summer stock. The New must enter, even if the Old that is perfectly good. Therefore, a woman with a keen eye, a true judgment of value, and a sure knowledge of what she wants, can just now save money on many an article needed for the autumn and winter.

One thing it pays a woman to buy now is a smart, simple, dark straw hat. Summer headwear, by the first of September, is apt to show the ravages of sun and dust. It is too early to get the winter hat. For about six weeks something smart and fresh in the way of headwear will wonderfully tone up one's costume, whereas the dingy, faded hat of summer will spoil the effect of the prettiest dress. Millinery departments are clearing out their summer hats regardless of cost. A dark straw that can be worn until October, trimmed simply with ribbon or wings, can be had for almost nothing, and it will be found to be one of the best staying investments a woman can make just now in the matter of clothes.

Gloves are another wise bargain. September, even October, knows many hot days, when silk or other kinds of cool gloves will be a comfort. These are merchandise of the past now with stores, for autumn and winter gloves are pouring in and shelves and stockroom must be cleared for them. A woman can get cool gloves now much under their usual price.

Many stores have a clearing out of handkerchiefs at this time, and handkerchiefs are always useful. Short pieces of lace and emroideries for underclothes can be picked up at reduced prices, only one should be sure just how many yards will be needed, or one will have not quite enough and find it impossible to match. In buying trimmings, it is well to have their definite use in mind and to know the exact quantity that will be required.

Hair ribbons for the schoolchildren can be found in the bargain sales of odds and ends of ribbons.

The thrifty housewife can secure table linens at this season at savings to delight her. Short lengths of kitchen towel, table napkins and table cloths, where only a few of a pattern are left, scarfs and dollies, all little odd lots, are hurried out at bargain prices. Linens "keep" and are always so useful in the home, that it pays a housewife to lay in plentiful supplies when prices drop.

Indeed, a woman can save many a dollar now if she shops cannily. But she shouldn't get herself out in the rush to do so, get herself worked up to a pitch of nervous excitement that means more loss in the matter of physical energy than the money saved will repay, nor be bitterly disappointed if some other woman gets the bargain she is after. It is so much to the good if she does get it, but if she doesn't, she is just where she was in the beginning. She has suffered no actual loss. It was a matter of chance that the bargain was offered. If it hadn't been offered she would have paid regular prices without a murmur. So she should accept the good luck, frankly, if she gets it, and if she doesn't secure it, not repine.

MAY RIVAL THE SUGAR FRAUDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The entire Fifth avenue establishment of the five Duveen brothers, known the world over as dealers in rare art objects and antiques, was seized by Federal officers late this afternoon and Benjamin J. Duveen, the only member of the firm then in the city, was arrested, charged with conspiracy to defraud the government out of customs dues.

Late last night another member of the firm, Henry J. Duveen, was arrested on the Lusitania at quarantine, having just returned from Europe on that steamship.

Henry A. Wise, United States District Attorney, in asking for extraordinary heavy bail when B. J. Duveen was arraigned, said that the frauds would reach more than $1,000,000, and that all five brothers were implicated. Bail was fixed at $50,000, which was promptly given and Duveen was released. H. J. Duveen's bail was fixed at $75,000, and it was said the bond would be furnished tomorrow morning.

Special agents of the Department of Justice, armed with warrants, conducted the raid on the aristocratic establishment. After arresting Benjamin J. Duveen a search for undervalued articles was begun, and more than a vanload of "suspicious" goods was found. It was then decided to place the entire establishment under seizure and leave the customs inspectors in charge of it for the night.

Duveen surrendered the keys of the safe and desks and was taken to the Federal building. He asked permission to send a wireless message to his brother Henry J. Duveen, aboard the Cunarder Lusitania, which is due to dock late tonight, which request was granted.

Frauds of $1,000,000.

When the prisoner was taken before United States Commissioner Shields, District Attorney Wise explained that the case was the most important one the government has thus far had to deal with in connection with importation frauds. He suggested that $100,000 would be the proper amount of bail. He assured the commissioner that he was in possession of evidence concerning a series of revenue frauds aggregating more than $1,000,000, which, he said, had been systematically carried on by the five brothers and another man mentioned in the complaint. The commissioner decided, however, to set the bail at $50,000.

Mr. Wise, explaining the case to-night said that information had been recently placed in his hands tending to show that the Duveens had for years been defrauding the government out of customs duties on works of art and antique furniture imported from abroad by means of false consular in-voices. The records at the custom house were hurriedly overhauled and the records seemed to substantiate the charges.

May Rival Sugar Frauds.

According to United States Attorney Wise, the Duveen arrests are the beginning of a customs clean-up that may rival even the sugar frauds in the amount of money involved. It is understood that the frauds which the government has under examination run not only to the importation of art objects of Duveen Brothers for their own account, but to importations for hundreds of wealthy customers, including most, if not all, of the prominent art collectors of the country. J. P. Morgan, George Gould, the late Chas. T. Barney, the late Charles T. Yerkes, Henry C. Frick and a host of others have been for years among the customers of the Duveen concern. United States Attorney Henry Wise, who ordered the arrests, said:

"These frauds involve the loss by the United States of millions of dollars of duties, and are by far the largest uncovered by Collector Loeb thus far."

AT THE THEATERS

"The Gold Seekers," one of the best Biographs, will be exhibited at the Park theater this evening, and the vaudeville features will be of the usual high order. Alberto's feats of magic will be repeated, and Harney and Haynes will be there in thrillingly interesting stunts. Brown and Wilnot, two of the most popular specialists ever seen here, will be seen at their best.

Last evening's audience at the Park was very large and included some of the best critics of the city. Everybody was delighted with the excellent program. A chorus song, participated in by the elder Miss McIntotte, from the gallery, and one of the singers, made a distinct hit. Miss McIntotte appeared at the Park for about sixteen months steady a short while ago.

ROYALS ARE LEAVING.

Patrons of the Art theater will regret to learn that Charles Royal and his wife, Edythe Elliott, with Baby Elliott, will conclude their engagement in this city at the end of the present week and will depart for the Coast. They have appeared at the Art every evening for eight solid months, and have proved entertainers of extraordinary merit. For the remainder of the week a whirlwind program of two different sketches will be put on each evening to Saturday, when three will be staged. The playlets tonight will be "A Drummer's Sample" and "The Haunted House," and tomorrow evening "The Prohibitionists Dream" and "The Servant's Ghost." There will be four reels of motion pictures each evening.

THE BIG EMPIRE.

Manager Overend had a very good house at the Empire last evening and everybody went away delighted with the program. Tonight the big features will be the ventriloquistic specialties of Prof. Willis, the song and dance cards of Golding and new songs and dances by Clara Keating. A big new lot of pictures arrived in the Sierra for the Empire and were opened up yesterday. Some of the best of them will be shown for the first time tonight.

Manager Overend has been far from well for about a week, but has stuck to his post, and now that he is in better shape will give his patrons the best that is to be had.

AT THE NOVELTY.

The Novelty theater on Nuuanu street will have a great program this evening. Wise and Milton comedy skit and song entitled "Oh You Coon" is a hummer, as is also their jungle absurdity entitled "Cannibal Love." Katie Milton will introduce, as her side specialty, what she calls "A Vision from the Orient," in which she will be assisted by Nani Alapai. Hen Wise will also introduce a moral lesson entitled "the good that can be found in a pack of cards," that promises to be both amusing and instructive. Then will come the Mascotte sisters—last mentioned but not least by a whole lot. They will appear in a brand new budget of songs and dances, complete, with entire change of wardrobe. This big program should not be missed.

THE SAVOY FRIDAY.

The Savoy theater, which has been built on the site of Aloha Park, will open its doors on Friday evening for business. Five vaudeville artists personally selected by Jack Scully on the coast will appear in the initial program and interspersed with their numbers will be an excellent selection of motion pictures. E. J. Love, formerly of the Aloha Park and Orpheum, will manage the Savoy.

BAND TONIGHT.

After a vacation of a month the band will resume its duties this evening, giving a concert at Thomas square, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The following numbers will be presented: March—Kahuku (new).....Berger
Overture—Rosamunde.....Schubert
Ballad—Elna Maka Uluhi.....Hermes
Selection—Operatic Mirror.....Tobani
Vocal—Hawaiian Songs.....Ar. by ..

Selection—Dollar Princess.....Fall

TO START GRINDING.

Wailuku plantation will begin grinding next week, and will be followed on or about the 15th by plantations of the Maui Agricultural Company. Cane on these estates is well advanced and a satisfactory outturn is assured all around.

LECTURE BY REV. POTWINE

WATERBURY, Conn., September 27.—A large number of the members of St. John's chapter Daughters of the King, gathered at the parish house of St. John's Church on Monday evening to listen to an address of the Rev. W. E. Potwine, rector of St. Elizabeth's Church, Honolulu, who told of the work in that diocese under the Rt. Rev. H. B. Restarick, The Missionary District of Honolulu, as it is called, comprises the Hawaiian Islands and the American island of the Samoan group; an area of 6,449 square miles, with a population (1900) of 151,001. The former Diocese of Honolulu of the Church of England was reorganized as a missionary district of the American church in 1902, the reorganization taking effect on April 1 of that year with the resignation of the Rt. Rev. Alfred Willis, D. D., the English bishop, and Bishop Restarick was consecrated July 2 of the same year. He found the situation in his bishopric somewhat difficult, as there were two factions among the white residents in Honolulu, and the native and Chinese congregations were out of sympathy with the white people. During his eight years of hard work these differences have been adjusted, and now harmony prevails throughout the district.

The Episcopal church ministers, in these islands, to five different races; the whites including English and American residents; Chinese, Japanese, native Hawaiians and Koreans. Other races represented are Porto Ricans, Russians and Filipinos. The Roman Catholic church ministers to a large proportion of the native Hawaiians; Congregationalists, Methodists and other evangelical Christian bodies has a number of successful mission stations in the islands, and the Mormons have lately established mission work in that region. There are several Chinese clergy, a Japanese catechist, and schools have been established for the Hawaiian and Chinese girls which are very successful in their work.

Mr. Potwine told the story of the establishment of his own church in order to show the methods of missionary work in Honolulu. The cathedral, St. Andrew's, was well established and self-supporting under the English bishop. Mr. Potwine was sent in to a section of the city where no religious work had previously been attempted. A cottage was hired, and a night school opened for young men who wished to learn the English language. No direct missionary work was done at first, but the Bible was used as a text-book and the claims of the Gospel presented as occasion offered. After a year and half of this work, the pupils were told that all who desired to become Christians might sign an agreement to attend a class for instruction. Twelve young men immediately responded, and the class was formed. Baptism was administered when they were sufficiently instructed to receive it, and confirmation followed in due time, and now there are 65 communicants and a large congregation.

St. Peter's the Chinese congregation under the Rev. Kong Tin Yet, has 135 communicants. The church building is literally packed in the aisles, and the rector has been obliged to tell his workers in the St. Andrew's brotherhood not to invite any more persons to come to church till they can have a large building. The whole service is in Chinese, and there is a vested choir of men and boys who sing either in Chinese or in English, as occasion may require. The rector recently called a meeting to see what the congregation could do for itself toward raising money for a new church. The wages of the heads of families in this church are not over $35 a month; their families are large and the cost of living very high. Yet at that meeting over $2,000 was subscribed by these poor people. Their record puts many a well-to-do congregation hereabouts to the blush.

Mr. Potwine showed picture postcards of the church, the rectory, and the parish house of St. Elizabeth; all handsome buildings and seemingly well adapted to their purpose, although there is much still needed to complete their equipment. The necklaces of Hawaiian sea beans, made by members of Mr. Potwine's family, have sold well and a good sum has been realized toward the purchase of an organ for St. Elizabeth's Church. Mr. Potwine was formerly a clergyman of the Connecticut diocese, and later did missionary work in the western states, before going out to Honolulu. He is a pleasant and ready speaker, and his talk of last evening was much enjoyed by all who were privileged to hear it.
